

2026 HEALTH REIMBURSEMENT ACCOUNT (HRA) PLAN

HRA PLAN ELIGIBILITY

The IRS sets rules on who can contribute to a Health Savings Account (HSA). If you are not eligible, Worthington offers comparable Health Reimbursement Account (HRA) plans instead.

You are not eligible to contribute to an HSA if:

- You are covered by a spouse's healthcare plan, including a Health FSA
- You are enrolled in Medicare
- You can be claimed as a dependent on someone else's tax return
- You are receiving VA medical care and do not have a disability rating

HRA PLAN DESIGN

The HRA plans include the same annual Company contribution, deductible, co-insurance and out-of-pocket maximums as the HSA plans.

However, there are a few key differences to keep in mind:

- Only the Company is permitted to contribute you cannot add your own money
- HRA funds are available only while you are actively enrolled in the plan
- If you drop coverage, retire or leave the Company, any unused HRA funds are forfeited

ANNUAL COMPANY CONTRIBUTION AND ROLLOVER

The annual HRA Company contribution amount depends on your plan and coverage level. You will receive half of the annual amount on the first pay date in January and half on the first pay date in July. The amount is prorated for new hires.

Company Contribution to your HRA
Coverage Level	HRA Select Plan	HRA Choice Plan
Employee only	Up to $1,000/year	Up to $750/year
Family	Up to $2,000/year	Up to $1,500/year

Any money left in your HRA at the end of the year will carry over to the next year after the claims runout period ends on March 31. As long as you stay enrolled in the plan, your balance keeps rolling over each year – up to a maximum of $5,000 for single coverage or $10,000 for family coverage.

USING YOUR HRA

You can use your HealthEquity debit card to pay for your out-of-pocket medical, pharmacy, dental and vision costs. In addition, if you pay for eligible expenses out-of-pocket using another payment method, you may request reimbursement via the HealthEquity mobile app or my.healthequity.com.

DEBIT CARD

If you are new to the HRA Plan, you will receive a debit card in the mail in mid-December. If you are currently enrolled, continue using your existing debit card. You may request additional cards for your spouse and dependents by calling HealthEquity at 866.346.5800.

HOW TO ENROLL

When you complete your 2026 benefits enrollment, you will be asked if you have other healthcare coverage. Enroll online at worthingtonbenefits.com or by calling the People Center at 877.840.6506.
